Hardware Firm Takes Arcade Case To Kentucky Court of Appeals

Attorneys for Shafter Combs and Son Hardware Company have appealed a Perry Circuit Court judgment against them in the complicated Arcade dispute to the Kentucky Court of Appeals.

The appeal is of a court store room of Combs Hardware judgement that over-ruled a by a long-completed remodeling project.

As a substitute for the arcade, the store owners agreed to permit the public to use the store as a passway between High and Main Streets.

The back portion of the store is occupied by Western Union Telegraph, with a door that opens on High Street near the Baker Hill bridge.

In ordering the firm to re-open the passway, Circuit Judge Don A. Ward ruled that by long and uninterrupted use of the arcade by the public, the public in effect had the arcade dedicated to it as a public thoroughfare.

Contesting the September ruling, the hardware firm said that it had never relinquished its right to the arcade to the public, that it had allowed the public to use it only as a convenience.

The firm's plea to the Court of Appeals is only the latest maneuver in the long contest between the City of Hazard and the Combs firm, which began last February when the City sued the firm, asking the court to re-open the arcade.

The arcade was closed and its space included in the main in charge of arrangements.

Burial was in Riverside Cemetery with Engle Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Feltner Explains Urban Renewal

In recent talks before local civic clubs, Hazard Mayor pro-tem C. B. Feltner has outlined the city's position on the North Main Street Urban Renewal Project, which comes up for a vote November 3.

"I am not asking you to vote yes or no for the North Main project," Feltner told the Lions, Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs. "I am here to present you with factual information so you can make up your own minds."

Concerning that all progressive public projects such as urban renewal are always inconvenient for a few individuals, Feltner stressed the importance to the community as a whole of the North Main project.

He informed the clubs that the North Main Project would not cause any increase in local taxes. The City's 25 per cent share of the project cost, estimated at $250,000, will be paid for through non-cash grant in

Petition Circulating For Library District

A petition is now being circulated all over the county, seeking signatures of at least 6,500 qualified voters who are in favor of establishing a public library district in Perry County.

Establishment of the district would quantify Perry County for large state aid in maintaining the county's public library and extending its bookmobile facilities.

The same petition, under a new state law, would authorize the public library district to levy a special ad valorem tax of 10 cents on each one hundred dollars worth of property assessed for local taxation, money that would finance the expanded library operation.

The petition lists several advantages to the county through formation of a library district, and illustrates specific costs to property owners, according to the valuation of their property.

The continuation and expansion of the Bobby Davis Memorial Library's bookmobile service, enlargement of the library and its book collection, increased state aid to the library and the creation of a county more attractive to industry are some of the advantages, according to the petition.

Property assessed at $1,000 would be taxed one dollar a year; property assessed at $2,000 a year would be taxed two dollars a year, and so on, correspondingly up and down the assessment scale.

Presently, the county library operates on a budget of $6,500, of which $5,000 is paid by the City of Hazard, $1,000 by the County Fiscal Court, and $500 in state aid.

This money goes mainly for the librarian's salary and building upkeep.

Last year, an organization called Friends of Kentucky Libraries donated $1,200 to place a bookmobile on Perry County roads. The bookmobile was provided gas and oil and minor upkeep by the Perry County School Board, which this year budgeted $900 to aid the mobile unit.

With most of the original $1,200 now spent, the Bobby Davis Library Board is turning to county parents for help through the formal establishment of a County Library District.

One of the Board's main selling points in seeking public sympathy and financial help is

Hazard, Napier Homecoming Games On Tap This Weekend

A Friday afternoon parade will kickoff a weekend of sports festivity in Hazard that will feature homecoming football games at Hazard and M. C. Napier High Schools.

The large, 23-unit parade is scheduled to begin winding through Hazard streets at 3 p. m., beginning on Davis Street, then across Memorial Drive and up Lovern, down High Street to the Main Street intersection, and finally down the length of Main Street back to the starting point.

The parade will be a homecoming queen candidates, the afternoon demonstration, joint enterprise of Hazard Bull, cheerleaders, majorettes, Little Hazard's Bulldogs meet the dog and Napier Navajo supporters.

Bands from both schools, lions will form the nucleus of the weekend activity. The game, earlier rated as no contest, took on new significance last week when the Pirates trounced Whitesburg 45-7.

Hazard barely squeaked by Whitesburg in an early-season encounter, 21-20. The undefeated Bulldogs need a win over Fleming to clinch the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference title, which would be their sixth championship in the past seven years.

M. C. Napier followers are expecting their biggest homecoming celebration ever this weekend, with a schedule crowded with student activity.

Navajo football action Saturday night will be a doubleheader that will introduce something new in local high school sports and at the same time begin the 1964 bowl games.

Preceding the Napier-Hazard Green clash at 8 p. m. will be the first Powder Puff Bowl Game, a rugged contest between two Napier girls football teams.

Napier Coach Ed Wilson said the prelim will actually be "just a friendly game of touch."

The Napier Homecoming Dance is scheduled to begin at 11 p. m. in the Pet Dairly building in Walkertown, with music furnished by "The Sounds."

Queens of both homecomings will be crowned at halftime intermission. Hazard's queen candidates are Lucy Carol Johnson, Linda Renee Ritchie, Carolyn Fields, Jamie Miller, Jean Beeler, Katherine Buchanan, Jackie Morgan and Debby Alexander.

Napier queen candidates are Barbara Childress, Linda Fugate, Paula Del Pont, Mary Alice Napier, and Janet Combs.

M. C. Napier's Navajos are hoping to please an expected large homecoming crowd Saturday night when they tangle with visiting Hazard Green. They are, kneeling left to right: Manager Lawrence Hagans, B. Parsons, D. Fraley, K. Ballard, J. Wooton, G. Pendargrass, P. Eversole, W. King, R. Grigsby, C. Banston, G. Newspaper Employment Increases 30 Per Cent Since Year 1950

By Stewart R. MacDonald, Manager
Newspaper Information Service, A.N.P.A.

Since 1940, there are more than 20 million new newspaper readers. Just since 1950, newspaper employment has gone up 30 percent.

In the last five years, newspaper publishers have spent more than $100,000,000 each year to improve their plants and equipment.

Already the most advanced computers are ushering in the world of automation to newspapers.

More readers, more jobs, big-ed there was an average of five new jobs for every newspaper job offered for every graduate. Newspapers are on the rise. This is only one measure of the growth of the newspaper industry. The demand for news is growing. The complexity of 20th century people who are trained to do the job of a newspaperman is increasing. The people informed about how to prepare for a career in newspapers are increasing.

Starting as a newspaperboy is the ideal way to begin. To meet these challenges, the newspaper industry is turning to the future. More and more frequently, newspapermen are being sought from schools of journalism. Journalism schools provide a broad educational background and the journalism techniques which a beginner can put to work at once.

For work in newspaper advertising, one should at least be a graduate of high school and have a college degree. For the top jobs, a college graduate is needed. College courses should include economics, English, history, and journalism. They move with world news and courses in journalism, advertising, and public relations. The production side of newspapers offers new and challenging opportunities too. Men in production also earn top wages.

Not should the rewards of working on the advertising side of the newspaper be overlooked. Advertising makes possible a free press, since it provides the financial independence from government control that a free press requires. In advertising the newspaper, the Milwaukee Journal listed man is helping business to grow. He is helping to spread the news about new products or services. He works with magazines, newspapers, books, and other products. He works with people, he associates with the leaders in business and industry.

There also are ever-broadening opportunities in circulation jobs, including counseling and circulation management. After a newspaper has been printed it must be distributed promptly, efficiently. A great many newspapers are sold by newspaperboys. Many are mailed to subscribers. Still others are rushed by truck to news-dealers throughout the area where the newspaper serves.

Circulation work requires the abilities of those who like to sell and deal with people — both boys and adults. How about pay? Not only is pay high and going higher, but job openings are continuously increasing. Last year, journalism schools reported that the newspaper industry is one of the most promising in the world. You should like to read the news about new products or services. You should like to write. You must be able to get along with people. You must have respect for facts, be concerned with accuracy, have the patience to check and recheck for truth. You need a sense of honor and public responsibility, for the power of the printed word in the newspaper is not to be used carelessly or lightly.

There are many ways to get into the newspaper industry. You can start as a newspaperboy, or you can go to a journalism school. You can also go to a college and major in journalism. Three "Basic Facts"

1. Nearly everybody reads a newspaper nearly every day.
2. Practically every sale of every product manufactured by your company (or by your clients) will be made to a newspaper reader.
3. Hence, the newspaper is basic and the effective use of its advertising columns constitutes the most powerful and the most profitable advertising force in existence, any day and every day.

Looks like a mighty big week end for Napier and Hazard Schools with both having their Homecoming Game and Festivities this weekend. Hazard's game will be held Friday and Napier's Saturday. Hazard has eight candidates while Napier has five, all of whom are very pretty girls. Our best wishes to each and every one of them.

What's New? Well, for one thing Chester Stevens is printing a new sign in blue and gold on Hazard's Collins Field that reads "Collins Field, Home of the Bulldogs". He hopes to have it finished for the Homecoming Game.

As can be seen throughout today's Herald, this week is National Newspaper Week and this is the one week in the year when we feel that we can tout our own horn. We're proud of our paper and the people who work to make it a success. Our Hats Are Off—to our rural correspondents who are so faithful in sending in their community news. They're a big help to our paper. Our thanks also to the local people who send us items of interest of visitors, meetings, etc. that are of interest to all of our citizens. We also appreciate the numerous complimentary calls and messages which come in daily.

In today's Herald, we have a run page ad about our paper and pictures of our employees. One very-valued employee that is not in the display is our business manager, Mrs. W. P. Nolan, who along with Mary Fields is taking a well-deserved vacation with her mother and relatives in Hamilton, Ohio. Mrs. Nolan reads proofs, prices our job work, gives us numerous ideas, and is an all-around asset to the office. Without her help, we are at a loss. Napier To Play Hazel Green In Homecoming Tilt Saturday

The bruised and battered M.C. Napier Navajos play host to the confident Bullfrogs from Hazel Green High School in their annual homecoming tilt Saturday night at Napier field.

Napier came out of the Lynch game with injuries to three key players. Right tackle Ken Finnison had a bad leg that threatens to keep him on the sidelines for this one. George Ballard injured a shoulder and may not be at top strength. Quarterback Mickey Fields came up with an injured forearm after Monday's rough workout and is a big question mark as far as Saturday night's game is concerned. Fields was scheduled for X-rays late yesterday afternoon.

Coach Ed Wilson has indicated that 225 pound junior LeRoy Rutherford will take over for Finnison and 8th grader Calvin Beatty will move up to Ballard's backfield spot. Fields will be listed as a starter until the X-ray report is read.

Wilson said, in a Tuesday afternoon interview, that his team was through losing. "Our kids have made up their mind to end this streak Saturday night!"

Hazel Green comes to town seeing red after last week's 40-13 loss to London. Hughes Bennett's club has a 33 record, playing in the tough South Eastern Kentucky Conference. Heading the Bullfrog attack is senior halfback Wendell House. House is described as a good runner and tough defensive man by the Napier scouts. Bobby Jones does the signal calling for the Frogs and is rated a good passer and runner. Jones' favorite receiver is right end C. L. Bruner.

Coach Ed Wilson

Starting lineups for both teams are:

Hazel Green lineup is: LE Richard Clark; LT Paul Brown; LG Cletis Leach; C Thurman

Hazard Bulldogs Remain Unbeaten

Hazard's Bulldogs and the Pikeville Panthers remained unbeaten after this past weekend's football action.

Hazard clinched a spot in the Fourth region District Two Class AA playoffs with a convincing 33-0 win over the Jenkins Cavaliers. Pikeville handed previously unbeaten Paintsville its first setback 21-6.

In other action from Friday night, Napier lost its sixth straight 47-0 at Lynch. Lily upended Leslie County 20-0, and Fleming-Neon roared past Whitesburg 45-7.

Taking a look at this weekend's action, Hazard plays Fleming-Neon in the Bulldog's homecoming. Pikeville goes to neighboring Elkhorn City for a date with the tough Cougars. M. C. Napier could easily end their losing streak in a Saturday encounter with Hazel Green, winless Leslie County hosts Wheelwright. Prestonsburg hosts Whitesburg and Jenkins travels to Belfry for a Saturday contest.

Newspapers Read For Centuries

For centuries, newspapers have been censored and discussed, read and misread, legislated against, threatened with extinction, criticized and praised to the skies.

But one thing is certain: They have NOT been ignored.

The following quotations about newspapers and their place in the social, economic and political life of the public have been compiled by the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

The basis of our government being the opinion of the people, the very first object should be to keep that right; and were it left to me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers, or newspapers without a government, I should not hesitate a moment to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson

Hazard Meets Fleming-Neon In E.K.M.C. Finals Friday

By Monte Gross

The Hazard Bulldogs enter the upset-minded Fleming-Neon Pirates at Collins Field this Friday. On the rebound from a 45-7 rout of Whitesburg last weekend the Pirates hope to steal a victory from an overconfident Hazard.

However, if Hazard wins they will capture their sixth Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference crown of the last seven years.

Coach Jack Carey

Fleming must be rated as a somewhat erratic ball club. Their overall record is 4-3. Among the teams to which they have lost are Jenkins which Hazard smothered last week and Everts which the Bulldogs face in two weeks. Perhaps the greatest victory by the Pirates was their conquest of highly rated Elkhorn City by a 13-12 count.

Fleming is a hard-hitting team capable of playing fine football when they are up. One can be sure that they will be ready to play ball Friday night. If the Bulldogs are caught relaxed their homecoming pie could be mighty bitter.

The Bulldogs are in good physical condition generally. Quarterback Bill Morgan's back still aches a little from a knock he sustained in the Jenkins game and tackle O. J. Rowe is fighting a mild case of the flu. Both hope to be able to go full speed Friday night.

Those fans who attend the game at Collins Field this Friday should see a fine contest between two good teams. Hazard will be looking for its eighth victory against no losses.

Hazard Clinches Class AA District 2 Title Friday

By Defeating Jenkins Cavaliers Squad 33-0

By Monte Gross And Bill Engle

Houston Hogg ran for two touchdowns and passed for a third in leading the Hazard Bulldogs to a 33-0 victory over a game but outmanned squad of Jenkins Cavaliers. The win clinched the Class AA District 2 title and kept Hazard on top of the EKMC standings with a 5-0 slate. Hazard's seasonal record is 7-0.

Scoring in every quarter the Bulldogs completely dominated the game. The defense did not allow Jenkins to mount a serious threat at any time. Tackle O. J. Rowe anchoring the Hazard defense turned in another all state performance. Rowe has the inherent ability to diagnose an offensive play and to confront it successfully which all great defensive players must have. Actually a tip of the hat is due to the entire defensive unit. Although Jenkins was able to execute several individual plays well the aggressive hard hitting line and alert secondary did not allow them to mount a sustained drive or make a serious scoring threat.

Although quarterback Bill Morgan's passing was something less than the pinpoint perfection demonstrated in previous games it was deadly accurate in the clutch situation as his two fourth down touchdown passes demonstrate. However any slack which showed in Morgan's aerial attempts was more than compensated for as he revealed a latent talent to the partisan Collins Field crowd that he could be a nifty open field runner on kick-offs and punt returns. Halfback Houston Hogg showed power, ability and versatility as he made runs of 20 and 11 yards for tallies and passed 30 yards for a third.

After Morgan returned the opening kickoff to the 41 the Bulldogs marched down the field in 12 plays for their first touchdown even though one score was called back when Hazard was guilty of an offside penalty. On fourth and eleven Morgan fired a scoring pass to end James Walker. He also kicked the extra point and Hazard led 7-0 with 7:16 left in the first period. Jenkins could not make a first down after receiving the kickoff and punted. Morgan returned the kick 18 yards to the Jenkins 32. Eight plays later Houston Hogg dashed 11 yards for Hazard second first period touchdown. The PAT was no good.

Midway in the second period Houston Hogg intercepted a Cavalier aerial near mid-field. Eight plays later highlighted by an 18 yard Morgan to Freddie Hogg pass and Houston Hogg's 20 yard run to paydirt the Bulldogs scored. Morgan added the PAT and Hazard led 20-0 at half time.

Hazard scored on the last play of the third quarter when on fourth down from the 18 hit Freddie Hogg on the four who then tightened his way down the sideline into the end zone. Morgan was slightly injured on this play and left the game. The run for the PAT was no good. Late in the fourth quarter Hazard took over after returning a Jenkins punt to its own 38. Seven plays later with only nine seconds left in the game Houston Hogg playing quarterback for the injured Morgan fired a perfect 30 yard strike to halfback Bervin Collins for Hazard's final score. O. J. Rowe kicked the extra point.

Hazard's opponent next Friday night at Collins Field is EKMC foe Fleming-Neon which clobbered Whitesburg 45-7 last weekend.

Lothair Team Wins Softball Tournament

The Lothair Softball Team put on a last inning rally Sunday to capture the Eastern Kentucky Mountain States Softball Tourney before a large crowd when they faced a strong group of All-Stars from Letcher County, at the Lothair Ball Park.

Lothair came from behind to score two runs in the bottom half of the 7th inning to give the local boys a hard fought 2-1 victory over Letcher County. Letcher County took a 1-0 lead in the 5th inning on a walk and two singles. However, in the 7th inning, Chuck Meade, who played an outstanding defensive game at third base, led off with a sharp single to right.

After failing to sacrifice, Clifford Davis followed with a single to right field with runners advancing to second and third when the right fielder bobbled the ball. Jim Hall then lined Red Kimberly's first pitch over first base down the right field line for a two base hit and the championship for Lothair.

Gene Smith fired a two hitter, striking out 14 Letcher Countians for his 32nd win against six losses.

Outstanding defensive stars for the tournament included Pick Rose and Ken Cobb. Rose made many superb fielding plays at shortstop while Cobb played an outstanding tournament behind the plate.

Lothair advanced to the finals of the East Kentucky Mountain States Softball Tourney by winning a 9-0 forfeit from Jackson, then capturing a 5-1 victory over Grapevine. Timely hitting by Ken Cobb, Rose, C. Davis, and Meadows gave Lothair a 5-1 victory.

Carl Pigman hurled a strong five hitter striking out 10 thus advancing Lothair to the tourney finals. A. B. Holliday pitched creditable ball for Grapevine, but three errors paved the way for three unearned runs of which Lothair quickly took advantage.

Lothair, after disposing of Grapevine, then took on Letcher County in their first of two meetings. Letcher quickly took a 1-0 lead in the 1st inning on an infield single, walk and error. The 1-0 lead held up until the 5th inning when Lothair took a 3-1 lead as Gene Smith's two run double gave Lothair a lead they never relinquished. Jim Hall, Gene Meadows, Ken Cobb, singled, then Gene Smith hit a drive over second base to score Hall and Meadows.

Lothair tied the game away in the 7th when Punt Olinger hit a long tremendous grand slam home run blast deep over the centerfielder's head to increase Lothair's lead to 8-1.

Letcher County managed only one hit off Gene Smith, who struck out twelve batters. In addition to Olinger's home run, Smith and Meade had two hits with Cobb, Rose, Pigman and Hall getting other hits. This 8-1 victory set the stage for Lothair's come-from-behind 2-1 championship victory. The local champions' current record now stands at 47-10 for the season.

For the many who watched the tourney, it was a complete team effort for Lothair with many defensive plays turned in by Ken Cobb, Punt Oliver, Gene Meadows, Pick Rose, Chuck Meade, Cliff Davis, Jim Hall, Pigman and Gene Smith.

Newspaper Habit

Good Measure

Of Child's Mind

You can measure how bright your children are by the time, and interest they devote to the newspaper.

That was one conclusion apparent from a survey by Dr. Wilbur Schramm of Stanford University.

How do your own youngsters rate against these findings? Dr. Schramm found that newspaper reading is negligible until a child is 7, but it then zooms. Children start with the comics, of course, but strong interest develops in every section of the paper by the time they are 12.

By that age two-thirds of them read a newspaper daily and only a handful never pay any attention to one. Intellectual ability has a lot to do with it.

Eighth graders in the top fifth of their class, for instance, lead the bottom fifth two-to-one as daily readers. Between the 10th and 12th grades the newspaper moves up to rank just behind books in getting the attention of children.

Ted Sanford, Announces Changes In High School Football Setup

Kentucky's high school football setup is getting a new look in class A and AA for the 1965 season.

Commissioner Ted Sanford of the KHSAA made two major announcements Saturday. They were:

1. The state championship games in Class A and AA—usually played on Thanksgiving Day—will be played this fall on Saturday afternoon, November 28. Site for the games will continue to be the University of Kentucky's Stoll Field. However, the post Holiday date may give many Louisville fans a chance to see the games since they no longer conflict with the Male-Manual classic.

2. The KHSAA's board of control has approved major changes for 1965 and 66 in the Class A and AA setups, as recommended by Sanford and his assistant Joe Billy Mansfield.

Brief History Of Hiram P. Brashear

By Hiram P. Brashear

Viper, Ky.

I am the son of the late James Brashear and Elizabeth Pratt Brashear, and according to record, I was born October 12, 1872, near Viper. The oldest son of a family of thirteen children, eight sons and five daughters, I had one sister older than myself.

I was raised on a farm where we kept stock, fowl, horses, cattle, hogs, geese, ducks and chickens, so as a boy I had plenty to do helping the care for the animals on the farm.

The surplus raised was sold to stock traders that drove them on foot to Mount Sterling to market them. In those days there was plenty of virgin timber in these mountains and people who lived close to the river would cut logs and build them into large rafts and when high water came would run them to Frankfort to market them.

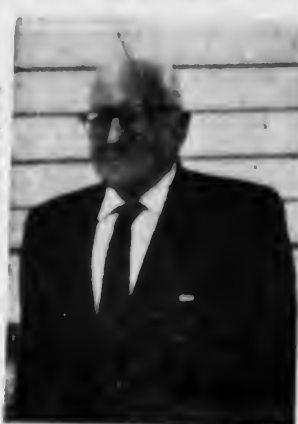

So after I was grown, I worked in the logging business quite a while. With the logging and the work on the farm I was unable to go to school very often, but did manage to complete the 8th Grade. They had only three months of school a year at that time.

On December 28, 1893, I married Sarie B. Stacy, at what is now Viper, Ky. She died August 20, 1920. We raised five children, three of whom are still living: Herman Brashear and Mrs. W. H. Cornett, of Lexington, and Norman Brashear, of Hamilton, Ohio.

I have seven grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren. I have always been a supporter of ex-Governor Bert Combs and I received a present from him on my 90th birthday.

I am an old-timer who has traveled quite a bit. I have been in eighteen states and down to

Robert Combs PTA Sponsors Carnival

The Robert W. Combs P.T.A. met Tuesday, October 13, at the school. About 50 enthusiastic people were present, including thirteen teachers. Mr. Franklin Turner resigned as president and Mr. Mervin R. Combs was selected as the new president. Plans were made to start a drive to get books and funds to be applied to the new library which is the P.T.A. project of the year.

A carnival is planned for October 28. One-half of the net proceeds will go to the library fund, the other half will be used to operate the school.

A membership drive is under way. Prior to the meeting only thirty members had paid current dues. During the meeting, twenty-seven others joined. A committee pledged to make an effort to double the membership before November 15.

Room count was taken and Miss Carroll's Sixth Grade won with eleven parents in attendance.

The business meeting adjourned and the group enjoyed refreshments of homemade spice cake, coffee, tea and milk.

Our present board member in the 2nd District voted for the present superintendent of schools on a four year contract. My other opponent is strictly for the present superintendent of schools. I am obligated to name for superintendent and I hold no grudges. I am a coal miner, lived in this county all my life, and am qualified to serve you as board member.

Are you SATISFIED with the present superintendent and his personal family interests in the handling of school affairs?

Combs Homemaker Club Studies Hats; Teachers Attend Schoolmasters Banquet

By H. C. Robertson

The following principals, teachers, and staff members of Perry County and Superintendent Wooten attended the Schoolmasters' Banquet Thursday at 6:30 p.m.: Mr. and Mrs. John Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Coda, Paul Colwell, Ronald Wood, Ellen Campbell, Faye Campbell, Monroe Fugate, Corbett Grigsby, Curt Spicer and H. C. Robertson.

The banquet was sponsored by Hazard Civic Clubs at the Roy G. Eversole Elementary School, at Hazard. Dr. H. Gerth Morgan, from the University of Maryland, was the speaker. He brought a great message on the educational needs of the day. He emphasized the cultural changes that are taking place in the world today and the seeming failure of education to meet the needs of the day. He said that the layman from the streets, businessmen and about everyone thinks that they know what education needs, but none have anything constructive to offer that is practical and workable.

The home, the community, the church and the educators are responsible for the lack in education but the blame is all laid at the feet of the educators. He made this significant and alarming statement that the great educators knew that we needed to take a different course but were not doing it. He said that we were following a line of less resistance rather than the need.

In conclusion he pointed out two important facts that would help more than anything at the disposal of the teacher or any one else: 1. The humanness in teachers, and 2. The adjustability of the children to the human teacher.

The teacher can succeed in all circumstances if she will do all she can with what she has wherever she is. If as teachers we focus on ourselves and improve ourselves, we can perform near miracles in building good citizens, happy homes and great institutions, in this time of great need.

In a previous issue, I mentioned our woes in regard to our television at Combs. For six or seven weeks, we have been told that we would have good television tomorrow or the next day. Now, he TV man says that someone shot a lead mine at him Saturday night and that he and those with him had to run for their lives. He will stay off the hill from now on at night. Earl (Jeep) Bowling, Jr., visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bowling, over the weekend. Earl, Jr., is a member of the U. S. Army and is stationed at Fort Knox.

Mrs. Charlie Haley visited in Tennessee over the weekend.

The Combs Homemakers met at the home of Mrs. Roy Fortney Thursday, October 1, at 1 p.m. with ten members present.

Mrs. Cecil Townes gave the lesson on hats and fabrics. The members also tried on hat frames and found which style of hat suited them. They will meet at the Kentucky Power Company auditorium October 19-21 to make hats. Guests were Mrs. Glenn Logan and her daughter, from West Virginia. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Luther Deaton.

The Young People of the Combs Baptist Church attended a candlelight service given by the Young People of the Town Mountain Baptist Church Friday, October 9, at 6:30 p.m. Miss Hartha Spencer was the guest speaker.

Morris Fork Ladies Attend Meeting In Kansas City

Mrs. George Turner and Mrs. S. VanderMeer of Morris Fork, attended the Tenth National Assembly of the United Church Women in Kansas City, Mo., this week (October 5-9). They were among 2,500 women from all parts of the nation and world attending the meeting.

The role of the laity in the mission of the church was the main theme of the meeting. Outstanding church women representing the 2,351 state and local interdenominational councils of church women participated.

These local councils serve 13 million women of the 31 Protestant and Orthodox churches belonging to the National Council of Churches. United Church Women is a general department of the National Council.

Theologians, writers, the Nigerian ambassador to the United Nations, and a woman state senator from New York were among the score of speakers at the assembly. Two dozen prominent Christian women from overseas shared in the program. They included one of the first women doctors in Fiji, the dean of a large nursing school in the Philippines, a woman theologian from Japan, and a social worker from Brazil. Many of these have been helped by U.C.W. funds.

United Church Women are concerned with better housing and other community problems, international affairs and world peace, and better race relations. They promote locally such observances as the World Day of Prayer.

At the Kansas City meeting the women faced together the practical and spiritual demands of life in the nuclear age and directed a message to church women across the nation calling for responsible Christian action.

The Governor Speaks

By Edward T. Breathitt

My attention has been attracted on more occasions than I can count by the excellent work record of persons with some kind of physical handicap.

I have come to realize more and more, and especially during and since my term as the State commissioner of personnel, that persons with physical handicaps are not disabled when it comes to a desire to be productive and useful to our society. They want to work. They do not ask for sympathy, however much they merit it.

It is now estimated that 300,000 Kentuckians are disabled in some way which requires a special effort on their part to work or move about.

Let us look at the facts about employment of the handicapped, however. Last year alone there were some 2,300 Kentuckians with handicaps who earned the right to hold a job. This many disabled persons were placed by our State Employment Service. There is no available measure of the total number of working Kentuckians who have physical handicaps, but I am sure the total would amaze you.

The real proof of the pudding, as employers will realize, is the high caliber of work turned out by our handicapped who are on the job. Statistics show that handicapped persons take fewer sick days than the average worker, for instance. Watch a handicapped person yourself, and you'll see that their efforts can be the equal of anyone's.

The record shows that in the past two decades all across the nation, in Kentucky and in her sister states, in all manner of jobs, handicapped workers have compiled a record of great accomplishment which more than justifies the confidence which management has placed on them.

To hire the handicapped is sound business and each passing year brings a greater need for broader opportunity for the handicapped.

Automation and the rapidly changing nature of today's jobs offer employers a new incentive to make use of the special skills which the handicapped are learning through modern vocational training.

Actually, the number of jobs which require unimpaired physical faculties, the all-round "jack of all trades" or robust type of person, are growing fewer in number and as a percentage of the total job force. The demands of today's jobs are more for the excellence in quality of human spirit, rather than the sole dependence upon the brute strength of the worker's physique.

I now add my personal recommendation that Kentuckians everywhere make a permanent place in our record employment picture for the physically handicapped worker.

At the beginning of my Administration I pledged to create 75,000 new jobs for Kentuckians during my four years in office. This promise is being fulfilled. August of this year was the second highest monthly employment in our history. Each month which passes from now on should see an average in excess of 700,000 Kentuckians at work in non-farm employment alone.

Our growth rate in the area of business is ahead of the national average and our rate of insured unemployment is at or near the national average. We are beginning to offer improvements which give 1964 the best commercial climate, in Kentucky history.

This is the time for confidence in the build-up of State business and industry. Our handicapped and restored workers deserve a chance to put their efforts behind continuing this record-breaking economy. I urge your responsible cooperation in every way with the continuing program of expanding employment opportunity for the handicapped.

Representatives of Kentucky's coal-mining industry, the state's largest single employer, will celebrate on October 16 their greatest year of production since 1950.

The Kentucky Coal Association, announcing plans for its 18th annual meeting in Lexington, reported that in 1963 Kentucky mines produced 78,139,040 tons of coal.

This coal had a value of $350 million, and the tonnage was the fourth largest in the Commonwealth's history. The record was 88,695,527 tons in 1947.

The 1963 production by districts was: Harlan, 6,153,693 tons; Hazard, 11,538,664; Martin, 4,409,844; Man, 5,361,000; Pikeville, 14,957,226; and West Kentucky, 35,718,613.

Fred B. Bullard, president of the Association, said that mine owners and executives from most of Kentucky's 43 coal-producing counties are expected to attend a one-day session in the Phoenix Hotel, Lexington. An attendance of 200 persons is expected.

National leaders in the coal industry and officials of the Kentucky state Departments of Mines and Minerals, Natural Resources, and Revenue will speak at the meeting and work with the coal producers in appraising their progress and planning for the future.

"The progress of the Kentucky industry, which is the second largest bituminous coal producer in the nation, is indicated by the increase of more than 8,000,000 tons just in the last year," Bullard said. "Employment also increased, and at the end of last year 29,717 persons were working in the mines."

William B. Sturgill of Hazard, chairman of the Association's board of directors, said "this progress brings on added responsibilities, which will be considered along with other problems at our meeting."

Other topics at the meeting will be: the projected effect of atomic power on future uses of coal; what Sturgill described as "the unfair competition of imported residual oil"; progress in strip-mine reclamation in Kentucky and the nation, and an appraisal of the coal industry's public image.

Speakers will include: Joseph E. Moody of Washington, president of the National Coal Policy Conference; Robert E. Lee Hall of Washington, vice president of the National Coal Association.

VA Questions And Answers

Q—When I enter a VA hospital next month, may I continue to draw my disability pension?

A—Veterans with dependents will not have their disability pensions reduced while in a VA hospital. The situation for veterans without dependents would depend on the public law under which their pension falls.

Q—The premiums on my $10,000 National Service Life Insurance policy are waived because of total blindness. I have now been trained so that I anticipate full-time work. Will this affect the waiver of premiums?

A—No. Waiver of premiums may continue where the veteran suffers certain disabilities. Permanent loss of use of both eyes is included in these disabilities.

Q—Can a peacetime veteran, who has joined the Armed Forces since January 31, 1951, be buried in a national cemetery, such as Arlington, and are burial flags presented?

A—Yes to both questions. If he has served at least one enlistment during peacetime and was discharged other than dishonorably, he is eligible. This peacetime service includes the six months of training.

The Appalachian Bill

Eastern Kentuckians who are concerned about the future of their region must do well to rally behind Congressman Carl D. Perkins and Senator John Sherman Cooper in urging President Johnson to re-convene the 88th Congress for further consideration of the Appalachian Recovery Bill.

This bill is designed to eliminate the need for welfare handouts in the Appalachian region by hitting at some of the basic causes of Appalachia's economic plight: poor roads, poor health facilities, unskilled workers, constant threat of floods, polluted streams, wasted lands, to name a few. The measure drew heavy support from both parties in the Senate, which passed it 45-13. Chances for its passage in the House seemed bright until the approaching election brought on the Congressional adjournment, leaving the bill to gather dust while the legislators went home to campaign.

It is one thing for a bill to be defeated for logical reasons by a majority of opposition in government. But this particular administration-sponsored bill had substantial Republican backing as well. If there is no Appalachian Bill passed this year, the tragedy will be that its defeat was caused by a simple stroke of fate that had nothing whatever to do with the merits or demerits of the bill's contents.

Few people who really understand the bill and the situation that makes it necessary are opposed to it. Yet, unless the President calls Congress back to Washington to pass it this year, the bill, already half way through Congress, is doomed in its present form. The aid and relief it would have brought to these hard-pressed mountains, particularly in highway construction, will be delayed indefinitely.

Our Congressmen are already exerting their personal efforts to have the Congress meet again. The least Eastern Kentuckians can do, as individuals, is write to the President with the same plea. This being an election year, it just might make the difference.

Welcome Home, Jean

One of Perry County's favorite daughters came home this weekend. She is Jean Ritchie, who has been in New York several years ago, Jean has an honored place for herself in the world of folk music, to the extent that her singing talent is known and admired across the United States and in several foreign countries. Her songs of the Appalachian mountains, which she learned from her family while growing up in Viper, have been widely recorded. Several concert appearances at folk festivals and frequent television and radio appearances have spread first hand appreciation of her talent to countless music lovers everywhere.

When Jean sings, usually to her own accompaniment on the dulcimer, her audiences listen in rapt attention. And they hear more than a lovely voice. They hear sweet and sometimes haunting ballads and laments, stories told in song of the Appalachian mountains she came to know so well when she was a mountain girl herself. She carries to the world a description of and a feeling for these mountains that even those of us who live here often fail to notice or understand, and she does it in such a natural, uncompromising way that "homefolks" who hear her are invariably proud.

Jean is the "Singing Ritchie" from Viper who has become the most famous, but Jean's sister Edna has her own important distinction in the folk music world. A teacher at Dilce Combs High School, Edna is herself an accomplished singer and musician who is frequently consulted by folk music scholars interested in the Appalachian mountains.

Both Jean and Edna will appear this weekend at the University of Kentucky's Southeast Community College in Cumberland, as part of The Kingdom Come Swappin' Meetin'. Their appearance will give homefolks a rare opportunity to see the Ritchie sisters together, two of Perry County's truly distinguished people.

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

TO THE NEWSPAPERS OF AMERICA:

National Newspaper Week affords a welcome opportunity to salute America's free press and to applaud its vital and essential function in the daily life of our democratic society. The right to know is the natural prerogative of every American citizen and forms a continuous thread in the development of our constitutional freedoms. Newspapers have throughout the years contributed significantly to the preservation and propagation of this cherished right. As spokesmen for the ideals which emanate from our rich heritage, they expand our horizons of knowledge and deepen our understanding of both domestic and foreign affairs.

In serving as guardians of these ideals, our newspapers fortify the ties not only between our own citizens, but also between America and the world community.

I know that All Americans join in this tribute to our newspapers and I am confident that our press will sustain and enhance its indispensable role in the life of our Democracy.

Johnson Attacks Ordinance Again

519 East Main St.,
Hazard, Kentucky
October 6, 1964

Hazard Herald,
Dear Editor:

A garbage ordinance was passed February 20th, 1964 by the city council: Mayor Willie Dawahare; Commissioners C. B. Feitner, Dr. M. B. Payne, Dr. Eli Boggs, and Jack Burnett; Attorney Ernest Faulkner; and Manager C. C. Colwell.

The ordinance provides a garbage service to take care of objectionable waste material dumped in ravines, branches, vacant lots, sides of streets, alleys etc. Each residence is directed to place all garbage in suitable cans placed where they can be reached by the city's garbage service trucks.

Around the first part of July the council was suggested to have some unemployed fathers to keep places like parking lots etc., clean by removing regularly paper bags, paper, rags, cups, cans, bottles etc., and the answer was no. Another suggestion, why not have the city employees to clean the places of the objectionable material? The answer was no. Within a few days the city employees were seen cleaning the river bank back of the business houses on Main Street.

The writer has been penalized for not paying the $1.00 garbage service. The writer's garbage is burned 100% sanitarily. After the water and sanitation payments have been placed in the city office several times after the first of the month, they are returned and at the end of the month a penalty of 10¢ is added, the water cut off, and $1.50 added to restore the water service.

It appears that the writer's so called irregularities are much above and beyond the violations of ignoring the accumulation of objectionable material such as paper bags, paper, rags, cups, cans, bottles etc., with much of the trash blown to the lawns nearby.

However it can be seen that the penalties for violations of the ordinance varies much here and there among us. Approaching events cast their shadows before. It's a long, long time that has no turn, according to an old philosopher in the long ago.

The Local Newspaper

Newspapers all over America are now celebrating National Newspaper Week. This annual event will mean different things to the different publications who define themselves as newspapers. Some will use the week as an excuse to pat themselves on the back. Others will perhaps pause to loftily emphasize the importance of newspapers—a principal means of communication—to the stability of our modern world.

In our case, we decided to do our back-patting in a full-page ad in today's edition, and reserve this editorial space for a general explanation of what we think is the proper function of a newspaper in a community such as ours.

A community newspaper generally offers three things to the reading public: news, editorial opinion and advertising messages. Of these three functions, it is the reporting of news that shapes a newspaper and justifies its name.

This newspaper is often asked why it doesn't subscribe to a wire service and print national and international news as well as local. The answer is simple: the Herald is a local newspaper. It is operated by local people for local people, and most of what it contains is about local people. The Herald could, perhaps, print on Thursday and Monday evenings news of events in Lexington, Louisville, Washington, D. C., and overseas. But chances are, the news would be the same thing the reader saw in the morning daily newspapers, or on television. At the same time, for every rehash of state and world news we included, we would have to leave out some item of more local interest.

The Herald often reports local happenings that, to some, may seem trivial and unimportant. But even small events are part of the fabric of Perry County and the Herald is Perry County's chief recorder of local history. Contained in the back issues of this newspaper is an authentic picture of history that no reading of large daily newspapers or viewing of television can provide. This newspaper believes it can best serve Perry County by writing about Perry Countians. It's that simple.

From time to time we carry editorial page matter that only in a general way applies to our local scene. But we try hard to confine our opinions to local subjects. The function of our editorial page, as we see it, is to act as a sounding board for the discussion of issues that have local significance. We try not to shy away from controversy. We've got opinions about almost everything, and it often happens that our opinions are the direct opposite of what many local people think. But no matter. The simple act of discussing an issue is constructive. Whether or not one of our editorials is agreed upon, it has served its purpose if it has stimulated the public to think about a given issue. Obviously, expressing strong opinions from week to week, we are going to make someone mad from time to time. But our letters-to-the-editor column is well advertised, and for more detailed rebuttal the reader has easy access to our "Personal Opinion" column. Only through the mutual airing of opinions can a foundation for a reasoned approach to the solving of problems be laid.

Our advertising columns might be described as a semi-weekly letter from local merchants to their customers, telling of specials for the week, mentioning bargains, describing outstanding features of new products on the market. Advertising columns offer consumers a way to shop without leaving the house. Some skeptics refuse to believe in advertising, don't believe it works. But they voice their skepticism unaware of the drastic drop in trade of businesses in cities temporarily without newspapers due, perhaps, to a strike.

Readers and advertising merchants in cities hit by newspaper shut-downs are the first to attest to the old adage: You don't miss the water until the well runs dry. At least one Herald reader had the same realization not long ago when he left Hazard for a month's vacation to tour the United States. By the time he got to Louisiana he couldn't stand it any longer. He telephoned our office, gave us a list of all his stops for the month he would be gone, and ordered the latest Herald to be waiting for him at each new point in his journey.

That, to us, is the ultimate compliment.

Johnson Supporter Feels Coexistence Is Best Policy

by Sandra Gilley

On Tuesday, November 3, 1964, I will cast my vote for the first time in a presidential election. I will vote for the Democratic nominee, President Lyndon B. Johnson and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey. I consider these men the most qualified for the highest offices in the land.

Both nominees, Barry Goldwater and President Johnson, agree that they do not want a major war, but this is where they part on their views. I feel that President Johnson's view is the best. That is, peaceful coexistence. The test-ban treaty with Russia last year (which Goldwater did not support) has so far proven itself a good and workable measure. Johnson said that he is ready to meet with any nation at any time if it will help promote peaceful East-West ties. Goldwater says we should deal with Russia more firmly. He has said that we should go to the extremes of threatening to cut off all ties with them if they don't see our point. I don't believe a nation as strong as ours can play "bullying" games with the Communists. Goldwater could drag the world into a nuclear war. I also feel that the power to release nuclear weapons should lie in the hands of the President and not the field generals as Goldwater feels they should.

Johnson supports foreign aid and Goldwater has never said a word for foreign aid. Goldwater as the Democratic party nominee "shift on Communism" and at the same time foreign aid from the United States is stopping foreign countries from turning to the Communists for aid and support. I feel that foreign aid must be continued if we are to keep the world free.

Goldwater voted against the 1964 Civil Rights Bill. He has said that if elected president, he of course will carry out his job in seeing that this law is enforced. I feel that this is all he will do unless he decides to try to get sections of the bill repealed. Johnson's strong support helped get the bill through Congress.

Johnson's record seems to favor government-owned projects such as utilities, but he urges cooperation of public and private industry. Goldwater wants to sell TVA. But projects such as TVA have proven themselves and I feel the government ownership is what has made them work.

Goldwater wants a "prompt and final termination of the farm subsidy program." If this is put into effect the farmers would lose 50 cents of every dollar they presently clear. The tax cut this year helped the farmers. Johnson was in favor of the tax cut and Goldwater voted against it.

Goldwater has tried to make the Supreme Court an issue in this campaign and Johnson has stated that the Supreme Court is a different branch of the government and should not be brought into the campaign as an issue.

Because of the assassination of the President last year, the public has become aware again of the importance of the vice president. I feel that Hubert Humphrey is better qualified for the job of president if anything should happen to President Johnson. Humphrey appeals more to me because he is a leader whereas William Miller was ready to quit politics before he was picked as Goldwater's running-mate.

Another thing to note is that Goldwater only voted for one bill out of all the important bills passed by Congress this year.

The Johnson-Humphrey ticket is the best bet for this country. Johnson has had the difficult task of taking over an unfinished job a great man started and I think he has proven himself able. For all the above reasons, I will vote for Lyndon Johnson and Hubert Humphrey November 3, 1964.

Student For Goldwater Wants "Principle, Self-Respect"

by Carole Gross

It is true that the American people are offered a "choice, not an echo." Lyndon Johnson and Barry Goldwater are extreme opposites, giving the voters a choice of principle or political expediency, socialism or self-respect. I choose principle and self-respect and therefore support Barry Goldwater for President of The United States of America.

I approve and commend Senator Goldwater for voting against the 1964 Civil Rights Act that was pushed through Congress and was strongly supported by President Johnson. I feel that the Civil Rights Act makes a mockery of the freedom so proudly boasted of by the United States. Certainly, I am for equal rights, but I agree entirely with Goldwater's argument. He said, "I am unalterably opposed to discrimination of any sort, and I believe that though the problem is fundamentally one of the heart, some law can help—but not law that embodies features like these provisions that fly in the face of the Constitution and that require for their effective execution of a police state. And so, because I am opposed to any threats to our great system of government and the loss of our God-given liberties, I vote NO on this bill." I admire Barry Goldwater's courageous stand on this issue even though it was a great risk to his chances of receiving the Republican nomination. America needs a man who will not compromise himself and will fight for that in which he believes.

I believe Barry Goldwater will preserve the freedom of the United States and its position as a leading world power. If elected, he has promised to reinforce peace by instituting tougher policies toward Russia. The Communists are dedicated and consistent in their aim to rule the world. While the U.S. gives in Russia's demands in this cold war and is getting soft and lazy, the Communists are succeeding in their struggle for power. Barry Goldwater summarized my feelings when he said, "I don't like to lend dignity and respect to an outfit that says they're out to bury you. Every time we have stood up to the Communists they have backed down. Our trouble is that we have not stood up to them often enough. A shooting war can be avoided only by winning the cold war."

The Republican platform urges a constitution amendment to permit voluntary religious observance in public places, provided no one is coerced. This will be a step to reinforce one of our most important freedoms—the freedom of religion. Barry Goldwater said, "This nation was founded upon the acceptance of God as the author of freedom. Government didn't give us our rights. They came from God. Our government was founded to protect these rights."

"Centralized government is centralized government, I don't care where it goes on, and it can do as much damage to freedom in the U.S. as it has done to freedom all over this world," said Barry Goldwater. He advocates returning to the states and local governments that "which was taken away by foolish acts of Congress and usurpation by the executive branch itself."

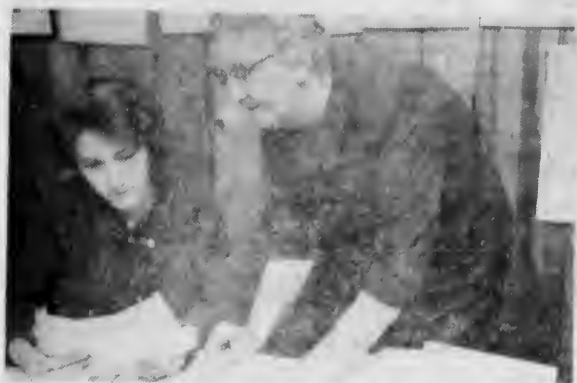

Also, by strengthening the State and local governments, Goldwater pledges "a war on crime." In his acceptance speech July, 1964, he said, "Where the examples of morality should be set, the opposite is seen. Rather than moral leadership we have been given circuses and scandal. Certainly, simple honesty is not too much to demand of men in government, no matter how exalted or protected the position."

For such aims I support Barry Goldwater.

The Hazard Herald

A community newspaper like the Herald isn't generally thought of as an industry but that is what it is. Starting with basic raw materials—paper, ink, type, photo engravings—the Herald "factory" fashions an original, finished product that, twice a week, is distributed to local consumers. Of course the Herald industry isn't exactly General Motors or the Chrysler Corporation. But it does employ ten full-time workers—printers, linotype operators, pressmen, bookkeepers, writers—people who live in Hazard and are themselves consumers of products that other local businesses distribute.

. A Thriving, Local Industry !

All advertising and much of the "inside" copy in the Herald first crosses the desk of bookkeeper Joan Hall. She is shown above going over copy written by Society correspondent, Mrs. Bess Draughn.

Editorials and most major news stories are written by Gurney Norman, who also supervises front and editorial page make-up and often doubles as news photographer as well.

After editing on front-office desks, all Herald copy is then "sent back" to linotype operators Joe Smith and John Stewart, who transform words on paper to words in metal type.

Like most industries, the Herald uses the assembly-line method

Newspapers in hand, Herald carriers hit Hazard streets to begin circulating the latest edition only minutes after the presses have begun to roll. County-wide, The Herald has 25 carriers, some of whom earn as much as $15 per week.

As the freshly-printed newspapers roll off the press, assistant pressman Bill Hall, right, collects them and stacks them to one side. Then, with assistance from Bill, circulation manager Mary Fields assembles the separate sections of the paper and quickly disseminates them to waiting newsboys.

The type is carried in metal trays, called galleys, to the make-up stones where printers Elzy Wilson, foreground, and Hiram Nolan, Jr., arrange it as it will eventually appear in printed form. Once a page "chase" is filled with type, it is "locked" and placed on the Herald's rotary press, which can print up to eight pages at a time.

Essential to any production effort is final approval of the finished product by the boss. Above, Mr. W. P. Nolan, publisher of The Hazard Herald, gives a late edition a final glance as the presses start to roll. Mr. Nolan spends much of his time in the back shop, setting type on the line, making headlines by hand. On the wall behind him in the above picture are a few of the many plaques the newspaper has received from the Kentucky News Association, which has recognized The Hazard Herald as, consistently, one of Kentucky's outstanding non-daily newspapers.

After 53 years of publication, The Hazard Herald is prouder than ever to serve the good people of Perry County. It is proud to be one of the county's few home-owned and home-operated industries. It is also proud to be:

Advertising Is Considered News

The American public spends more than 400 million hours reading its newspapers Monday through Saturday.

More newspapers are sold every day than loaves of bread, bottles of milk or packages of cigarettes.

And while reporters and editors tend to think primarily in terms of news coverage, major public opinion polls have shown that most readers look on advertising as news, too.

In fact, advertising ranks first in interest for women.

And for male readers, advertising has been found to top even the sports pages in readership.

There is an automatic acceptance of advertising presented in a newspaper. Its intrinsic good faith is taken for granted. Tradition guarantees it.

When we talk of advertising's news values, we do not lessen the importance of Your Family Newspaper as a source of news whether it's the kind that shakes nations or the warm human interest story in your own neighborhood.

I WOULD SAY

A real loyal fan, a few days ago we were speaking of the baseball season, I made the remark I sure hoped that Cincinnati would win, an old gentleman was standing by, he heard my remark, he suddenly turned toward me and stated, "You mean you are not for the University of Kentucky?" Hardly before I could explain he stated, "I guess you have a right to be for them since so many of our folks are working up there, so guess we should be all pulling for them now." Yes, we have many Eastern Ky. fans that are pulling for the Cincinnati Redlegs, not only because we have so many of our people working in that area they are the closest Major League Base Ball Team near us. I can recall in the thirties when we use to go see the Reds play, yes make it in a day and night. Or maybe at least a half a night. It was a hard trip in those days, even for a young man, to day we are much older, I for one am waiting until the roads are completed. Folks don't tell me roads will not make the difference, that is between here and YONDER People will be there if the roads are there. That is why I say we need our roads completed to make the proper connections, let's all look forward to this. Roads to me is the answer to any community problems, I am confident that ours is no different from the Central or Western part of the State. Above all I think that our State Officials at last have realized this great need of highway transportation. Not only in Eastern Ky. but to all parts of our state.

Guess the old gentleman was right in regards to his thoughts to the U. K. WILDCATS, As they beat the No. 1 team in the nation this past Saturday when they walloped OLE MISS, BY A SCORE 27-21. He is absolutely right we should pull for them which we were doing all the time, only two different kinds of ball games befuddled him in regard to what he overheard.

Shoplifting Not For Necessity

Examination of a number of cases of shoplifting in retail stores in Hazard definitely shows that it is not limited to any social, economical or educational level. This is contrary to the opinion of most people who think that the majority of shoplifters are professionals or people stealing because of necessity.

It is exceptionally difficult for many parents when their children are caught shoplifting to understand "why". Many times the parents would have purchased it for the child and some times the child has no special use for the items stolen. Ivan Jett, Executive Vice President of the Kentucky Retail Federation, stated that retailers wished to cooperate with parents to help our youth grow into respected members of society and will cooperate with all parents. He further went on to say that retailers, however, will prosecute all adults to the fullest extent, regardless of the individual.

2. PAYING THE CLASSROOM TEACHER A FULL 100% SALARY.
3. A HOT LUNCH FOR EVERY CHILD, whether he or she can afford to pay for it.
4. NO TEACHER WILL BE ASKED OR EXPECTED TO CONTRIBUTE TO ANY CAMPAIGN FUND.
5. Placing qualified teachers as near their first choice as possible.
6. Returning all qualified teachers to this county who wish to come home.
7. Pressure will not be applied to force anyone out of the school system.
8. A fair and honest placement of teachers, regardless of family connections.
